

UBE Umbraco: Content Section

Content Section

Please read the "Introduction" first.

The Content Section is where you create and manage the pages and the information (text and media) that is displayed on your website.

The top item in the Content Tree is the Root page that you have authorisation to access. If you have access to the whole website, the Root page is the Home page of the website and usually has the name of your organisation. If you only have authorisation to access a section of the site, the Root page is the Parent page of the section.

If you only have authorisation to access one page of the website, this will be only item in the Content Tree.

If you have authorisation to access the whole website or a section of the website, hovering over the Root page reveals a chevron to the left. Clicking the chevron reveals or hides the Child pages of the Root page. Other pages in the Content Tree may have a chevron next to them, indicating that they too have Child pages.
